10am - Corral Area □Pottery Workshop, Day One 10am-5pm

Baron Aelwyn de Spencer

Day One of three days of working with clay. Learning the basics of hand building, with the possibility of learning on a pottery wheel. As we will need a full day for projects to dry before firing, objects made during this session have the best chance of getting/surviving the firing on Saturday.

Some tools will be available, but students would not go wrong to stop by a craft store and bring a basic clay tool kit (usually $10-15).

10am - 1000 Eyes Campment Iron Needle, Pickup Project Bags Baroness Angela Seuestere

Theme: mythological creatures in period Limited number of bags will be available; first come first serve.

This is a team event for up to three people. One person picks up a bag of stuff to make any period mythological creature or SCA item from the contents of the bag . You may add duct tape (any color,or print), glue,or thread that you provide. no more than 33 % of the item may be duct tape. you may add any stuffing of your choice that you provide. You can make as many as 5 items from the contents of the bag.

You have until Saturday at A&S display to finish. A table will be supplied for display at the Artisans Display on saturday.

Noon - A&S Pavillion

Beginning Bellydance Movenents Lady Khalea Allen

Learn basic movements and how to layer them into beautiful dancing. Designed for beginners but veterans welcome to join in.

7pm - Town Eriks Chivalry Workshop Duke Alan and Assembled Chivalry

The Chivalry Workshop is specifically designed with two objectives in mind. First, for knights to fight with people they normally don't get to fight with. Artemisia is a big Kingdom, and travel can be tough. The Chivalry Workshop is specifically to help solve this problem, as it's in a central location, and is generally well attended.

The second objective is for knights to help teach others. The knights purposefully don't fight each other. They are there to help develop Artemisia's future fighters. This teaching environment has been very successful for years.

Following the fighting part of the Chivalry Workshop, we retire to a shady tent to discuss points of chivalry. Knights field questions from the non-belts, helping to explain their points of view. These discussions have proven to be very insightful and instructive. The discussion of chivalry is open to non-fighters as well. We welcome all who wish to attend.
